

Jon Spalding

for California 38th Assembly District Delegate

I've been a long-time Democrat and am passionate about equality, peace, and democracy--the ideals that are crucial to the stability of society.

Last October, I took the opportunity to express this passion by volunteering with OFA; making phone calls, registering college students, and helping at rallies. It was refreshing to be a part of the election rather than feel helpless as I watch from the sidelines, and I would like to become further involved in the political process by becoming a delegate.

My background is science and engineering, including a BS and MS in engineering and numerous physics courses and a strong intellectual curiosity.

As a scientist, I am passionate about intelligent environmental and energy policy that is just as crucial to our stability as a society as the social ideals we hold dear.

I feel the future is ours to create--I'd like to have a future that has less fear and suffering and more understanding and wonder.
