Though Barack is ahead this primary season by more than 100 voting delegates and hundreds of thousands of popular votes, the race is not over. What's more, the other campaign continues to pursue uncommitted Superdelegates, hoping to convince these delegates to ignore the majority of American voters and award the Presidential nomination to Barack's opponent.

We can play a vital role. By raising funds, Californians like us remind undecided Superdelegates, the nation and other states still to choose, that voters from the largest state support Senator Obama for President more than ever. And our contributions continue to help build momentum for the contests still to come.

What sets Barack's campaign apart is the extraordinary involvement of so many citizens working on their own to support his candidacy. The night before our event there is a debate in Pennsylvania, and the next big primary is in that state April 22nd. Our campaign is competing in each of the ten upcoming primaries, including North Carolina, Indiana, South Dakota, Oregon, et al.

We look forward to seeing you April 17th!
